LEADING POLITICAL EDITORS OF WASHINGTON.

A reference by the editor of the Chronicle to the late Hon. Charles Eames, with whom he had been for a time associated on the editorial staff of the Washington Union, suggests some cursory remarks concerning leading Washington editors in their connection with national affairs. We recur to the period when Congressmen had, as a general rule, to rely upon professional ability, outside and above that of trading partisanship, wherewith to reinforce their petty per diem, in times when "two dollars a day and roast beef" was considered by all men of sense so extraordinary a suggestion of party deception and popular delusion as to make the thing, from the present standpoint, appear like a very remote tradition of impossible truth. In those days Congressmen gave, as well as received, hospitalities. They, in garb or other personal appearance, would not have been mistaken by Revolutionary heroes as of the sort of European Continental contingents against whom they fought in '76. They rode in carriages, or walked rather than to be seen running to get on a crowded street car, with free pass in hand, to the annoyance of those laboring people who, having honestly put up their hard-earned pennies as fare, chafe when excluded from seats after the toil of the day. They took, paid for, and read many newspapers of different localities and shades in politics, and very rarely, like some inferior men of these days, affected to look with contempt upon the journalism or journalists that have too often put them in high position. Of the old statesmen, John Randolph was perhaps the only one who pretended indifference to newspapers. Indeed, he professed never to read them.—But Mr. Seaton was accustomed to say that there was scarce time to get to the office in the morning before Mr. Randolph, or some messenger from him, would be present to correct the slightest error concerning him that might have possibly crept into the Intelligencer.

The conspicuous advent of editors into official life, as a fixed fact creating great stir in politics, was reserved to the era of Jacksonism. A story is related of Isaac Hill, M. M. Noah, Amos Kendall, and F. P. Blair, leading newspaper champions of the early pretensions of General Jackson for the Chief Magistracy of the nation, that when they had audience with the old hero, he at once gave them carte blanche as to place. It will be remembered that Mr. Hill was about the first victim of Senatorial proscription, "for opinion's sake," as nominee for the Second Comptrollership, by reason of the exceeding partisan fierceness that he infused into the old New Hampshire Patriot. It was only yesterday that we saw an article in the New York Tribune, attributing the continued strength of the Democratic party in New Hampshire to the early lessons taught the people by Isaac Hill. This, of course, is only an approximation to truth, for Mr. Hill died in this city nearly twenty years ago.—It was during the Jackson period that Mr. Clay, in reply to Mr. W. R. King, of Alabama, so far lost temper on one occasion as to pronounce false an allegation of the latter, to the effect that Messrs. Blair and Rives were peers in gentlemanly character of Senators themselves. Mr. King at once penned a challenge, and demanded as satisfaction an unqualified retraction. The gentlemen, however, whose cause he espoused, always held themselves amenable under the code.

It may be truthfully said that the year 1845, or that in which Mr. Polk was inaugurated, witnessed the conspicuous entrance of editors into official life. General Duff Green, an early power in the press, had passed off the stage of active service in that regard. So had Amos Kendall, with his terse and sententious style of treating men and things. Mr. F. P. Blair, who had, in the long and continuous period of the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren, infused more iron into Democratic politics and politicians than has any one man since, then yielded the field to another actor, he being too much of an adherent of the Van Buren, Benton, and Wright school to suit those who had pushed Texas annexation.

The retiracy of Blair and Rives, who were openly, fully, and strongly endorsed by the old hero of the Hermitage as men having his entire confidence, was a very marked event in American politics. Mr. Benton did not at all pretermit expressions of wrath, in the well-known forms peculiar to him. Democratic politicians were apprehensive as to the result of the hazardous experiment of crowding those gentlemen from the "fore front" in the political arena. Their remarkable silence for a considerable period was regarded as ominous. The danger was as the shadow of a huge cloud, passing slowly and grandly toward the horizon, and finally disappearing. Another day saw developed that avenging strength of the Blairs, which told with effect upon their ancient enemies.

Thomas Ritchie succeeded F. P. Blair, and at the same time, or soon after, many new men of the editorial fraternity came upon the Washington stage. Mr. Gales was in the fruition of his great powers. Mr. Seaton's never-to-be-forgotten cobwebbed apartment in the old Intelligencer building was the constant resort of magnates of the Whig party, where was well considered and digested that political policy which, put in the form of three, five, or seven-column articles from Mr. Gales, who habitually rose to his labors at three o'clock in the morning, instructed most politicians, and was held to be in the nature of suggestions to the Whig press of the country.

Some time after this period Mr. Welling became a writer of the Intelligencer. At first his contributions were mainly of the high literary stamp that have put him in the front rank of reviewers. But his political writings were so much in the vein of Mr. Gales, both in the material treatment of a subject and their manner, that they came to be regarded as the effusions of his illustrious chief. * * * * *

While Messrs. Gales & Seaton very rarely indeed visited a President or heads of Departments, Mr. Blair had constant access to President Jackson, who, unquestionably, inspired all things of importance in his administration. Mr. Blair was an incessant laborer with that pen which was all the law and the prophecies in general Democratic politics for long years.

Mr. Ritchie brought with him, at a period of advanced age, all the amenities, proprieties and courtesies that could inspire a gentleman of the grand old school of Virginia statesmen. It is recorded of his journal that Mr. Jefferson once said "he read but one newspaper, and that was Ritchie's."—It was at once seen that the sea of politics ran too high and rough at Washington to suit his character, yet he braved it through by the exertion of a marvellous activity, enthusiasm, and devotion to the Democratic party and the principles of the celebrated Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of half a century previous. He retained, at the advanced age of more than three score and ten, great mercurialness and flexibility of manner, and his labors extended far into the depths of night. He bore a remarkable likeness at a little distance to General Cameron, and underneath an exterior of very demonstrative courtesy laid a determined courage. When it was remarked to him, that by reason of a sharp issue in politics of a personal nature, his son might be called upon to defend his honor, he said, the "blood of Douglas will protect itself." Mr. Ritchie had a faculty of discovering newspaper ability in those about him, and availed himself of its advantages by acquiring the friendship of those who felt honored by his expressions of kind confidence and regard. He was, in Washington, certainly more of an observer, listener, and counsellor in politics than a writer. He walked long distances daily, from point to point in the city, rarely wearing overcoat or cloak in the coldest of weather. He looked through the exchanges down to the smallest and most remote weeklies. Being obliged, on one occasion, to leave town for a few days, he directed that all the exchanges should be preserved until his return. They made a huge pile in a chamber of his house, but nothing daunted, Mr. Ritchie mounted to the top of it, looked through each paper like a flash, and threw them out of the window.

Mr. Ritchie's articles were invariably of the general party stamp, and not exhaustive arguments upon legal, constitutional, and politico-economic questions. Being of a polished, rapier-like character, rather than of the battle-axe order, Mr. Edmund Burke was called in to do solid work. He had carte blanche and opened those effective broadsides upon the opposite party which were anticipated from his powerful essays upon the tariff question, over the signature of "Bundelcund." At this time William M. Overton, of Virginia, commenced labor upon the editorial staff of the Union. He wielded a steady, strong, intelligent and vigorous pen.

About this time sprang into an evanescent but conspicuous existence, the "Southern Press." It was the organ of the States-rights or extreme Southern wing of the Democratic party. The editor was Elinwood Fisher, a man of rare composure in manner, but of great intellect and intelligence. He commanded respect from the sincerity of his views, his calm reasoning, and for what events have proved to be of much foresight.

After the "Union" was transferred to Messrs. Donelson and Armstrong, it was soon found that the pen of the former was too passionate and too much recurrent to the old issues between Jacksonism, Van Burenism, and Calhounism.

Judge Nicholson, of Tennessee, a politician of experience, carefulness, and ability, succeeded as editor of the Union. Then first appeared on this arena of journalism Roger A. Pryor, a very young man, but whose brilliant articles in the South-side Democrat engaged the attention of General Armstrong, a man of rare sense and judgment, though not a writer. An article of Mr. Pryor upon Russia, first asserting ideas as to the national relations of amity that should subsist between Russia and the United States caused a stir in political circles that resulted in the appointment of Mr. Pryor as Charge d' Affaires to Greece.—Meanwhile Colonel Forney was added to the staff, and became its head. His pen, at that time regarded by the Democratic leaders as most ready, reliable, and inventive of note their partisan objects of any in the country. Mr. Forney had not, up to the od, been so solicitous to care for himself to support advanced ideas of Southern rights far beyond the point maintained by General Pierce or Judge Douglas, and particularly to promote the fortunes of James Buchanan.

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 2, 1867.

MUCH DISCONTENT.

The masses of the people of North Carolina, both white and colored, seem to be adapting themselves quietly and peaceably to the new regime imposed by Congress.—The colored people seem to regard their enfranchisement as a gift of Providence, and are bearing themselves, for the most part, modestly and becomingly under the circumstances. We see no evidences of immoderate elation, no excitement beyond what might be expected, and they manifest no spirit adverse to the proper claims of those whom they have hitherto regarded as friends and superiors. Least of all, do we find any hostility to those who were their former masters.

On the other hand, the great body of the whites do not outrage truth and decency, by protesting their strong approval of what Congress has done—their pleasure or gratification at the so-called wise and wholesome measures adopted by that body. They, the sober, thoughtful masses, make no such pretence. Such exhibitions of pretence and hollow-heartedness, they leave it to the Holdenites, the so-called and self-styled loyalists, to make. They neither huzza nor throw up their hats at the abolition of slavery or the enfranchisement of the slaves. They know that every colored person in the State, with three grains of sense, would not believe such declarations, were the whites to affirm it upon oath. Yet they have determined to submit to the requirement in good faith, earnestly hoping that, after all, the fondest expectations of the friends of these measures may be realized, and that the wise and beneficent Ruler of the universe and of nations will order and control these strange and anomalous events, to the good of both races and the well-being of the nation. This, we say, is the real feeling of the great body of the thoughtful and considerate among us.

From this class, therefore, constituting as it does the bulk of the whites in the State, the colored population and the government may reasonably calculate on their best efforts to carry out the Congressional programme fairly and faithfully. Not so with the discontented and factious portion of our people. These are those who have labored since the war to keep the people in constant turmoil and trouble. Nothing that the great body of the people can do will please them. Neither the vigilance of our Judiciary, (always sympathizing with them more or less,) nor the watchfulness and sympathy of the military, the President or the Congress, can satisfy them. Congress has exerted itself to hush the clamors of these disaffected self-styled loyalists, but all in vain.—From their professed devotion and declared approval of the Howard amendment, and their professed approval of any plan of reconstruction which the Congress might adopt, it was apprehended, and the Congress certainly had a right to expect, that they would be highly elated at the recent Congressional Reconstruction platform.—But not so. None of our people are really more hostile to the enfranchisement of the colored people, than this very class of persons. Those of them who were slave-owners became hostile to the war, among other reasons, for fear of losing their slaves; and from the moment slavery was abolished, they became the most bitter persecutors and opposers of those whom they supposed contributed to the progress of the war. In most cases they were at first secessionists or hot war men themselves—were loud in their abuse and denunciations of the North, but so soon as they found their slaves were likely to be freed by the war, they transferred their bitterness to their own fellow-citizens.

They demand indemnity for their losses, but knowing that this is impossible from the government, they seek to make up the loss by trying to obtain possession of all the offices of the country and exercising all public control. As to their loyalty, their real love of Union and their genuine patriotism, it is all summed up in the word S-E-L-F. No one has sought to harm them or embitter their lives since the calamities of the war fell upon us all; but all that Congress can do to make them contented and quiet, but the actual bestowal of public office and its emoluments, will be unavailing. To compass this end, it would seem they are ready to do anything.

DISFRANCHISEMENT IN GEORGIA.—The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel makes a careful estimate of the number of persons disfranchised in the State of Georgia, under the operation of the Reconstruction Acts of Congress. It sums up its calculation thus:

Former members of Legislature	1,056
Justices of the Inferior Courts	1,320
Justices of the Peace	4,500
Post Masters	1,696
Custom House and District Court Officers	100
State House Officers, Judges, &c.	100
Total disfranchised	8,772

The Chronicle adds:

"We believe that the number excluded will be found rather greater than under the above estimate. This excluded class embraces those who have heretofore been considered the most intelligent, experienced and sagacious of our people. They embrace the very flower of Southern intellect and Southern wisdom. They have been and are distinguished, not only for their intellectual attainments, but they embrace the best morals of the whole country. We do not believe that any country can be certain to exist which disfranchises and drives from office and power the first intellects and purest patriots among its citizens."

GOOD ADVICE.—THE LATE "MEETING."

We publish, elsewhere, an address delivered by Gen. Sickles, a few evenings since, to the colored people of Charleston. The sentiments which it embodies are of a very conservative and moderate character, and inspire gratifying expectations as to his administrative policy. We read, with pleasure, the renewal of his assurance that he will divest himself entirely of partisan proclivities, and see that every citizen of the two States, who is allowed to participate in the work of reconstruction, shall have a fair and proper showing. And we cannot too heartily commend to the colored people the judicious counsel which he gives, when he admonishes them not to neglect their regular employment and associations to attend to political affairs, and to beware of those who would endeavor to excite animosities between the white and black races.

This address was delivered just before the recent "Reconstruction" muddle, in this City, but it contains a pointed and severe rebuke to the policy which convened, and the mischievous and malevolent animus which pervaded, it. The object of that meeting was not to assist in the work of reconstruction. Its object was to put a few old broken-down party hacks, who have forfeited the confidence of the people, into office, and to enable a few malignant men to wreak a grovelling revenge upon their fellow citizens; and, being such, the tendency is decidedly to impede and obstruct reconciliation and harmony. Its purpose was, and its effect is, to "excite animosities between the white and the black races." The fraction of whites, who participated in that meeting, represent hardly one-fifth of the white population of the State of North Carolina, and the ill-concealed design of many of them is to disfranchise, if possible by the aid of the colored man, the greater portion or all of the other four-fifths, and to inaugurate just such another Pandemonium here as curses and darkens the unhappy State of Tennessee. A more fiendish spirit never prompted human action, and we hope and believe that the sensible and well-disposed blacks will scout counsels which are calculated to alienate the races from each other, and thereby work the injury of both, and especially, in the long run, of the blacks.

Some of the men with whom the latter were associated, a few days ago, are in reality their worst enemies,—their worst enemies now, as many of them, especially the "negro-trading" portion, have been in the past. If they thought they could not use them for their own selfish ends, they would soon tear down their flaunting and hollow devices of "Liberty and Equality."

This is so palpable, that it is a matter of amazement that any discreet colored man, with his eyes half open, should have been even momentarily misled by their professions. It really seems to us that any one of them, on surveying the material of which that meeting was composed, and reflecting upon the antecedents of its instigators, must have been suspicious of the company he was in.

Above that flaming motto, which overhung the Speaker's chair, of "Liberty and Equality," should have been painted in glaring capitals "HYPOCRISY," and beneath it the following extract from the Raleigh Standard of not much more than twelve months since:

"UNION LANDMARKS."

"6. Unqualified opposition to what is called negro suffrage."

CONNECTICUT.

We have barely time, just as we go to press, to call attention to the telegraphic advices from Connecticut. The defeat of Hawley for Governor is very gratifying. The recent greatly diminished Radical vote in New Hampshire, and the present overthrow in Connecticut, indicate, we may reasonably hope, that the "sober second thought" is beginning to take possession of the Northern mind.

From the Washington Index.

"The negro will, we hope, eventually find out who are the friends upon whom he can depend. One year ago, when the question of allowing him to testify in the civil courts was before the Legislature, such disfranchised men as M. E. Manly, W. N. H. Smith, Cols. Cowan, Hyman, Hall, Stanford, and Geo. Howard, were found to record their vote in favor of the measure, while the enfranchised Black, Henry, Jenkins, of Granville, Moore, of Chatham, Nicks, Scoggins, Jones, of Wake, C. L. Harris, of Rutherford, Snead, and many others of their stripe, vehemently opposed it, and every one of whom were appointed delegates to the meeting held on the 27th. Again, on the 2nd of March, 1866, when the vote was reconsidered, Mr. Harris was urged to change his vote without effect, and the bill, after a heated discussion, became a law through the votes of such "disloyal" men as Aycock, of Wayne, McKoy, of Sampson, Whitford, of Craven, Howard of Edgecombe, and Hall, of New Hanover.

Yet now, when he sees, perhaps, a chance for political fame through colored votes, C. L. Harris is the first man to assume upon himself the duty of instructing the negro how to vote, and that too, after being so bitterly opposed to letting him have a voice in the court-room, as to actually demand that his vote in opposition should be recorded on the eight different occasions when it came before the Legislature. Verily, circumstances alter cases, and we earnestly hope for the day when the intelligence of the colored race will enable them to see through the vile impositions that are now being practiced upon them under the hypocritical guise of friendship."

The new Attorney General of Louisiana, appointed by Sheridan, is a Fenian and an advocate of equal rights. The new Mayor of New Orleans is one of Mr. Durant's Free Suffrage Committee. The Chief of Police is an ex-Colonel of the 11th United States negro regiment, and the police are to be selected from whites and negroes without distinction of color. The new Judge, who succeeds Judge Abell, was formerly a Major on the staff of General Banks, and since then has served as Attorney for the Freedmen's Bureau. More changes are said to be expected.

The Staunton Virginian states that a petition is being numerously signed by the colored people, requesting General John Echols to address them on their duties in the future. The Virginian says that Gen. Echols will do it, and that every intelligent gentleman in the South should do likewise.

GENERAL BEAUREGARD ON THE SITUATION.

The New Orleans "Times," of the 26th ultimo, contains an article from that distinguished soldier, General G. T. Beauregard, in response to a request made by that paper for his views on the "political situation." General Beauregard felt a modest hesitation about publishing his opinions on questions which are commonly considered as altogether political in their bearing. The importunity of his friends, however, added to the momentous character of the issues involved, decided him at length to yield to the respectful solicitation tendered in the premises, and the counsel which he now gives will be found fully in keeping with his straight-forward record as a soldier and a man. He says:

"In my humble opinion, we have but one of two things to do—resist or submit; the first is inadmissible, in our painfully exhausted condition. Four years of a desperate war have taught us that the "argument of the sword" can no longer be resorted to by us to redress our grievances. We must, therefore, submit; but with that calm dignity becoming our manhood and our lost independence.

Having been overpowered in the late struggle, we can submit to the harsh and ungenerous conditions of our conquerors without dishonor, and we must adopt the least of two evils; a furtile resistance would only cause our rivets to be driven closer; we must, then, acquiesce or leave the country. But we love too dearly the land of our birth to abandon it in its hour of severest trial. We should avoid, also, bringing it, by internal dissensions, to the condition of poor Mexico, and the unfortunate South American republics.

With regard to the suffrage of the freedmen, however objectionable it may be at present, it is an element of strength for the future. If properly handled and directed, we shall defeat our adversaries with their own weapon.

The negro is Southern born; with a little education and some property qualifications, he can be made to take sufficient interest in the affairs and prosperity of the South to insure an intelligent vote on his part.

In our future political contests with the North, on protective tariffs, internal improvements, etc., the freedmen of the South will side with the whites of the South and of the West, and they will thus contribute to give us back the influence we formerly had in the councils of the nation.

Our people should understand that the Radicals can remain in power only so long as the public excitement is kept up, as, with the turbid waters of the Mississippi river, the sedimentary particles are kept up at the surface only so long as the waters are in motion; the instant the current is checked those particles fall to the bottom. Thus will it be with the Radicals when peace and quiet are restored to the country; the Conservatives will then take the reins in their own hands, and the constitutional laws of the land will once more prevail.

I remain, yours respectfully,
G. T. BEAUREGARD.

For the Sentinel.

MESSRS EDITORS.—In Saturday's issue of your admirable and deservedly successful journal, you published a bill passed by that distinguished body of individuals, recently in session in the "City of Oaks," yclept par courtesie the Legislature, which is inhuman in its character, and which will hereafter reflect undying infamy upon its authors and abettors, and cause their names and that of their hitherto revered Old Mother State to be a stench in the nostrils of all honest men and a mark for their finger of scorn.

I refer to the bill entitled "an act for the relief of Administrators, Executors, etc."—This act, by its very words, opens a door for the perpetration of all sorts of frauds upon the orphans of all who have deceased within the past twenty years, including the children of those who fell in the late war, being urged to their deaths by the teachings and arguments of some of these very men, who, by the provisions of this act, now seek to defraud their helpless little ones. Shame upon them! They are not worthy of the name of men. Because we have, in a measure, become impoverished, are the debts due the widows and orphans of our land to be the first repudiated? Rather let us legislate to have these debts liquidated, and wipe out this foul blot which these self interested individuals have sought to fasten upon the unsullied escutcheon of the people of this State. Out damned spot! and ye who are the authors of this outrage upon those ye would thus seek to render beggars, deeming them helpless and unprotected, take care, that the vengeance of a just God, who is the Father of the widow and the orphan, does not yet lash ye naked through the world; and may God grant that another sun may never be permitted to shine upon so corrupt a body of men, as recently disgraced the halls of legislation of this State! Nine-tenths of them belong to the classes whom they thus seek to excuse from the payment of their peculiar class of liabilities, by passing an act, inhuman in its character, and by which every man who voted for it rendered himself liable to arrest and trial for a violation of his oath of office, for the Constitution expressly declares that "no State shall pass a law impairing the obligation of a contract," and they individually and collectively swore to support the Constitution of the United States. By the terms of this act any guardian, if he may be so disposed, although he may have received his ward's money ten or twenty years ago, and used it all this time for his own benefit, can now buy up a parcel of bank bills, and Confederate and State bonds, and tender them in payment. Many are doing this very thing, and now that this thievery is licensed, all (with a few honorable exceptions) will do it, and the poor child who has had nothing to do with bringing on our present evils is to be made the scapegoat of those who have. I say if such laws as this is allowed to stand upon our Statute Book, then is the future of our State dark indeed. If the hand of man should not further afflict us, then assuredly the hand of a just God will. JUSTICE.

[The author of the above sends us his name and insists upon its publication. We comply with his request, though we disapprove entirely of the spirit of the article.—Whatever errors the Legislature may have committed, it is entitled to respectful consideration.—EDITORS SENTINEL.]

A curious case of alleged fraud has been developed in the Chicago courts. A man named Rainforth simulated death and disappeared. His will was read, leaving all the property he had to certain persons, accomplices with him in the fraud, but it was never proven. A rule of court being obtained to compel the executors to prove the will, they confessed that Rainforth was still alive, and that his death was simulated to defraud several life insurance companies, in which he had effected policies amounting to $15,000. A long search for Rainforth ensued, and he was found at the Dupont House, on Hudson and Laight streets, New York, on Sunday night.—New York Herald.

An infant with a $1,000 note pinned to its dress was recently left in a London railway station.

From the Charleston Evening News.

GENERAL SICKLES' ADDRESS TO THE COLORED PEOPLE.

The torch-light procession of Tuesday night, which was followed by an immense concourse of colored people, assembled in front of Major General D. E. Sickles' quarters, to offer him the compliment of a serenade. The band having performed several airs, in response to the loud and repeated calls of the assemblage, General Sickles presented himself. His appearance was the signal for the most enthusiastic demonstrations. He said:

"My friends, I thank you for your visit.—Although unexpected, it is none the less gratifying. It is your privilege, not mine, to take part as a partisan in the political action of the day; my duty is to see that every citizen of North and South Carolina has a full and fair opportunity to vote as his judgment and conscience may dictate. This duty I shall endeavor to perform.—The colored race in this country have gained praise for their admirable conduct during the war and pending the recent agitation of their civil and political enfranchisement. In my Department, I can truly bear testimony to your patient forbearance.—When severely provoked to retaliate cruel acts of violence and humiliation, you have borne yourselves with unfaltering confidence; the day of your deliverance was not far distant. (Cheers.) Let me enjoin upon you all, in this hour of your success, perseverance in well doing. You are now citizens of the Republic. Remember that the strength of the nation lies in the virtue, industry, loyalty and courage of its citizens. You must try and vindicate the hopes of your friends and repel the forebodings of the sceptical by proving yourselves worthy of the privileges to which you have been admitted. (Applause.) Whenever any large addition has been made to the voters of a State, the same apprehensions have been expressed that are now heard in reference to yourselves.

Those already enfranchised are easily alarmed at any considerable change in the established order of things. So far, in this country, experience has shown that Union, Liberty and power are safe in the hands of those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows. (Applause.) None love the land of their birth more fondly; none will defend it with more constancy and valor than those whose labor makes up the sum of a nation's wealth. (Applause.) So long as the destinies of this country are in the hands of those whose homes are made sacred by justice, whose liberties depend on the courage with which they are maintained—the old flag may defy all enemies whether from within or without. (Great applause.)

It would be difficult under the most favorable circumstances for any race of men to engage, as you have now to do, in the most interesting political events, without being deeply moved by their importance and novelty. Let me advise you as a friend, and as one not without experience in public affairs, to preserve at all times the utmost moderation of language, temper and conduct. Avoid anything like violence, impatience or indecorum. Do not give even your adversaries just occasion to complain of the least disrespect shown to them in your discussions, private or public. And beware of those who would endeavor to excite animosities between the white and the black races.

The prosperity of the South, the welfare of the country, are intimately associated with the harmony and good feeling which should exist between the people of both races at the South. Whatever seriously impairs the interests of one race, must result injuriously to the other. Intelligence, culture, capital, land, are not less essential than labor; and yet without labor these can have no solid and enduring foundation. You have already shown your appreciation of these advantages by the eagerness with which you have employed the opportunities lately given you to educate yourselves. It will not be long before the white race in the South will see how deeply they are interested in the education, industry, thrift and progress of their population. In this mutual dependence lies the security of all.

Abundant time and opportunity will be afforded, and ample notice will be given, of all the successive steps to be taken in the organization of the State Government within my command. It will not be necessary, nor can it be otherwise than injurious to yourselves, for you to neglect your regular employment and associations to attend to political affairs. I promise you that, without any such sacrifice on your part, every man in the Carolinas, entitled to a voice in the decision of the great question to be passed upon under my supervision, shall have a fair chance to act his part without let or hindrance from any one. My friends, I wish you all good night.

THE North Carolinians are considerably stirred up by the charge of Mr. McCabe, in his history of the campaigns of Gen. Lee, that Pettigrew's North Carolina brigade fled the field at Gettysburg, causing the route of Pickett's division. The charge is not true. It so happened that Pettigrew advanced in front of Anderson's division, in which was Posey's (afterwards Harris') Mississippi brigade, and there are men now in Vicksburg who were present on the occasion, who know that they did advance, and did not fall back until Pickett was driven out of the enemy's works. They also know that when they were compelled to fall back, Pettigrew withdrew in good order, and rallied his men inside of the Confederate works. It is also a fact that Pickett never succeeded up to the close of the war in ever again making his command effective. Pettigrew is dead, but the least this matter is stirred, the better it will be for Pickett.—Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald.

EXTRAORDINARY VISITORS.—An old man and his daughter, from Alexander county, visited this place last Tuesday, for the purpose of asking the U. S. troops encamped here, if they knew anything about James Thompson, a son of the old gentleman, who belonged to the 7th N. C. Regiment, and who was said to have taken the oath to the U. S. Government at Baltimore, some time during the war. We have not learned whether they obtained the desired information, though the probability is that they did not. They came here on foot, a distance of some 40 or 50 miles, without money or other means to pay travelling expenses.—They brought down three bare shins and a weasel skin, which they offered to sell, but not to pay for a night's lodging, or anything of the kind. The old man wanted a fiddle string; and the skins, if sold at all, must go for that. It is to be hoped he found some one to accommodate him, and that he is now safely at home, as happy as any millionaire on earth. In possession of his full strung fiddle, with a blazing wood fire and a few cheerful neighbors around the hearth, he heeds not the wag of the would, nor cares for the fate of empires.

—Salisbury Banner.

One of the members of a whist club in a Western city died recently, and at the next meeting of the club the cards had a mourning border around them.

The Boston Transcript says: "Some of our best Republicans favored Gen. Butler's election to Congress on the ground that during the first session he would break his political neck."

IMPORTANT ACT.

At the request of a subscriber, we publish below the Act of the late Legislature, authorizing municipal authorities to enforce the collection of fines and penalties, by compelling the delinquents to work on the public streets:

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE MAYOR OR CHIEF MAGISTRATE OF ANY INCORPORATED CITY OR TOWN IN THIS STATE TO ENFORCE THE COLLECTION OF FINES AND PENALTIES.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That in all cases where judgments may be entered against any person or persons for fines or penalties, according to the laws and ordinances of any incorporated town, and the person or persons, against whom the same is adjudged, refuses or is unable to pay such judgment, it may and shall be lawful for the Mayor or Chief Magistrate, before whom such judgment is entered, to order and require such person or persons so convicted to work on the streets or other public works until, at fair rates of wages, such person or persons shall have worked out the full amount of the judgment and costs of the prosecution.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That this Act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

Ratified March 2nd, 1867.

MR. DAVIS—GENERAL SCHOFIELD—UNDERWOOD.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says: "Judge Underwood, of Virginia, has been here for several days in conference with the Attorney-General respecting the trial of Jeff. Davis. It is the intention of the court to have this case tried at the May term, and it is understood that Chief Justice Chase will preside. The objections which were made by the Chief Justice in regard to the military having control of that State are likely to continue for some time, under the reconstruction act. General Schofield, it is said, will shortly address a letter to Chief Justice Chase, in which he will state that the court can hold its sessions and proceed with the business, whenever he is ready, with perfect security and freedom. Unless this matter is disposed of in some way at the next term of the court, it is pretty certain that the President will release Mr. Davis."

The New Orleans Times, an influential journal, writes temperately and hopefully of reconstruction on the Congressional plan.—Deploring its harshness, the Times nevertheless deprecates angry opposition, and reasons to show that the penalties imposed will not, after all, fall so widely as has been expected. Of the oath it remarks that "the gist of the whole matter is, that the voter will support the Constitution and obey, not any kind of laws, but the laws passed under the Constitution," adding that any true Southerner "would take it gladly, honestly, and with all his heart." The Times declares that the number whom the oath will disfranchise is so small that the white citizens may continue to exercise great numerical influence at the polls, if they repudiate violent and unwise counsels. The practical application of this view, it is added, will be indorsed by two-thirds of the white community of Louisiana.

The sanitary superintendent, said Mr Schultz, has knowledge of more than thirty houses in New York city wherein the sole business transacted is the procuring of abortions.—Times.

The Atlanta Era of March 26th states that the rebel General John C. Breckinridge "has advised his friends to accept in good faith the Sherman reconstruction bill as the surest and only mode of restoring the country to peace and quiet.—New York Times.

Not many days ago the President remarked that he considered it a matter of much more importance to Congress than to him whether he was impeached or not.—Boston Post.

A black terrier dog is to be sold in Petersburg by the Sheriff to satisfy an execution in his hands against the owner of the dog.

The Jefferson (Texas) Bulletin says upwards of two hundred thousand rabbits were drowned near the banks of Big Cypress Bayou during the late flood.

FERTILIZERS
FOR SPRING CROPS.
WE beg to inform the trade and planters of North Carolina and Virginia, that we are prepared to furnish them with the most approved FERTILIZERS, on the most accommodating terms. We will have a stock of genuine PERUVIAN GUANO, purchased direct from the Agent of the Peruvian Government.
We have now in store, for immediate delivery, 325 tons BRADLEY'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME, which won for itself such an enviable reputation in the Cotton and Tobacco counties of North Carolina and Virginia, last season, proving itself equal, and in many important respects, superior to the Peruvian Guano. We give an analysis of it as ascertained by Dr. Hayes, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country:
Results of Analyses Made of Bradley's Patent Super-Phosphate of Lime, as now sold by Wm. L. Bradley.

100 PARTS CONSIST OF
Moisture	5.30
Prepared animal matter, salts of Ammonia, fatty substances and Humus	38.50
Bone Phosphates of Lime, Magnesia and Iron	36.80
(Soluble Phosphates of do. 16 6-10.)
Sulphate of Lime	16.50
Salts	20
Insoluble	2.60
	99.90

The animal matter afforded 4 2-10 parts of Ammonia when it was decomposed, and, as will be seen, nearly one-half of the Bone Phosphate is soluble.
After many analyses of your Super-Phosphate of Lime, made during the last few months, I have found your standard of quality full equal to that of any you have ever sold in former years; and I am satisfied that you include the correct principles in the manufacture. Respectfully,
A. A. HAYES, M. D., State Assayer.

THE SENTINEL.

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 2, 1867.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The public will find the Sentinel one of the best mediums of advertising in the State. Its circulation covers a larger area, perhaps, than any other paper.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Mitchell, Allen & Co., 22 Pollok St., Newbern: Agricultural House and Hardware Store.

Dunn, Plummer & Co., Petersburg, Va., announce a grand stock of Hardware of all sorts. We need only refer, for particulars, to their comprehensive advertisement.—There is no stauncher firm in the country than this. It is already well and favorably known to the North Carolina trade.

M. Rosenbaum announces a new lot of Zephyr Wool at 25 cts per ounce.

THALIAN ASSOCIATION.—We learn that the entertainment of this Company, last evening, gave much pleasure to the audience. There is to be a series of them, of which due announcement will be made.—The association combines some excellent talent, we are informed.

RUMOR—That Gen. Sickles is expected in this City, to-day or to-morrow. We know not what foundation there is for it.

THE LAST Saturday night's train from the West brought to this City two little orphan sisters, named respectively Lealah and Beulah Mins, the children of a Confederate soldier, who lost his life in the war. The mother is also dead, leaving these little girls to the charities of the world. They are from Columbia, and are en route to Baltimore, to be taken care of by that noble hearted friend of the orphan, Miss Emily Mason, whose pious and philanthropic efforts for such children are so well known and admired. They came in charge of the Southern Express Company, and are being transported by that generous Company gratuitously. The passengers speak in high terms of the paternal kindness of the messenger who had the care of them, and who acted more like a father to them than a hired employee.

Having to remain over here from Saturday night, until Monday morning, they were taken to the home of one of our citizens and cared for, their little basket filled with fresh food, and, on Monday, they were sent on their way rejoicing, with the kindest sympathies of all. Even those who differed from the soldier parent in his politics, must sympathise with these little lonely and dependent children.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.—The Criminal Court of Newbern, (Judge Green,) was engaged during the past week in the trial of a colored man, named Ed. Smith, on the charge of killing Gabriel Hardison, a white man, residing below Newbern. The case occupied most of the week. The prosecution was conducted with much ability by Messrs. Clark and Hughes for the State, and the prisoner was ably defended by Messrs. Roberts, Manly and Haughton.—The prisoner was acquitted.

JOSEPH S. WIGGINS, of the firm of Lewis, Wiggins & Co., 44 Warren St., New York, late a resident and merchant of Wilson, died in the former place, on Monday night last, after a brief illness. The deceased was a young man of fine qualities, and served gallantly through the war, as an officer in the 12th N. C. T.

GAS.—The following jeu d'esprit is rather too good to be lost. We take it from the Richmond Enquirer. There is much complaint in Richmond as to the price of gas.—Our Raleigh Company have reduced their rates, and are doubtless doing the best they can for the public, under all the circumstances:

GAS METRES—(COMMON METRE.)

Oh, makers of our gas, reflect
What rates you on us levy;
It surely cannot be correct,
Our "light" should come so "heavy."

Blame not my verses if they halt,
Or rhymes not quite complete are;
You ought to know how often fault
Will happen to the metre.

By law just ten per cent. your gains,
You find it better answers
At twice the sum to fill your mains;
You look to the main chance, sirs.

By artful tricks you dodge the act
Which should be your reliever;
Your gas tricks answer me—in fact,
I'm in a gas-trick fever.

Give us cheap gas! you'll find it pays
As well (I'm certain quite of it);
Gas is no trifle now-a-days,
Although we all make light of it.

TAKEN UP.—We learn that it is reported here, that the horses which were stolen from Gen. Wm. Evens, of Marion, S. C., a short time since, and which fact was announced in the Sentinel, have been taken up in Granville County, but we have not learned by whom.

GENERALS OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES ARMY FROM NORTH CAROLINA.—We have been furnished, says the Wilmington Journal, with the following list of General officers from this State, in the service of the late Confederate States. We think it is quite complete, and will prove interesting to many. The counties refer to those in which they were born. North Carolina is proud of her jewels:

General Braxton Bragg, of Warren; Lt. General Leonidas Polk, of Wake, killed at Missionary Ridge; Lt. Gen. Theophilus Holmes, of Sampson; Lt. Gen. D. H. Hill, of South Carolina, a citizen of Mecklenburg.

Maj. Gen. W. D. Pender, of Edgecombe, died of wounds received at Gettysburg; Maj. Gen. Robert Ransom, of Warren; Major General W. W. Loring, of New Hanover; Major Gen. C. M. Wilcox, of Greene; Major Gen. R. F. Hoke, of Lincoln, wounded at Fredericksburg; Major General S. D. Ramseur, of Lincoln, killed in the Valley of Virginia; Major General Grimes, of Beaufort.

Brig. Gen. L. O'B. Branch, of Halifax, killed at Sharpsburg; Brig. Gen. G. B. Anderson, of Orange, died of wounds received at Sharpsburg; Brig. Gen. J. J. Pettigrew, of Tyrrell, killed at Falling Waters; Brig. Gen. James B. Gordon, of Wilkes, killed near Richmond, Va; Brig. Gen. Junius Daniel, of Halifax, killed at Spotsylvania C. H.; Brig. Gen. Richard C. Gatlin, of Lenoir; Brig. Gen. L. S. Baker, of Hertford, wounded at Culpepper C. H.; Brig. Gen. M. W. Ransom, of Warren; Brig. Gen. Gabriel Raines, of Craven; Brig. Gen. James G. Martin, of Pasquotank; Brig. Gen. A. M. Scales, of Rockingham, wounded at Gettysburg; Brigadier General T. L. Clingman, of Buncombe, wounded at Petersburg; Brigadier General J. H. Lane, of Virginia, citizen of Cabarrus, wounded at Cold Harbor; Brig. Gen. Rufus Barringer, of Cabarrus, wounded at Petersburg; Brig. Gen. R. B. Vance, of Buncombe; Brig. Gen. W. W. Kirkland, of Orange, wounded at Bethesda Church; Brig. Gen. Wm. McRae, of New Hanover; Brig. Gen. Robert Johnson, of Lincoln, wounded at Spotsylvania; Brig. Gen. W. R. Cox, wounded at Chancellorsville; Brig. Gen. W. G. Lewis, of Edgecombe, wounded at Farmville.

Besides these, Brig. Gens. J. H. Cook, of Virginia, Alfred Iverson, of Georgia, were indentified with North Carolina troops, the former particularly endearing himself to the State.

CORN FOR RELIEF.—We are glad to learn that Col. Bomford and Gov. Worth have to-day agreed upon the following distribution of the 3000 bushels of corn recently purchased by Messrs. Worth & Daniel, of Wilmington, by the order of the Southern Relief Association, of Philadelphia:

For Union County	bushels 1000
" Stanly "	" 700
" Anson "	" 500
" Raleigh "	" 800

The 800 bushels here are retained for further distribution, where most needed. Orders have been given by the Bureau department for the immediate transportation of the above to the nearest point to reach the Counties designated.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[From the Star of Saturday evening.]

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Both Houses of Congress adjourned at noon to-day under the plan of adjournment agreed upon yesterday. The President and all the members of the Cabinet were present at the Capitol to-day, where the President was engaged in signing bills as they were passed by the two Houses. It is understood that the President signed all the bills of any importance sent to him, including the Senate deficiency bill, the Tennessee Militia bill, and the bill forbidding payment by States to owners of slaves.

A COMPROMISE.

A leading State Senator of Virginia, who opposed the action of the State Senate in legislating for a Convention under the military reconstruction bill, is about, it is admitted, to advocate a compromise of the white voters of that State with the colored voters. That is, to give the colored men the entire Congressional delegation, if the white men are allowed to control the State government.

ANOTHER PRESIDENTIAL PROTEST.

The President this morning sent the following:

To the House of Representatives—In giving my approval to the joint resolution providing for the expenses of carrying into full effect the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, I am moved to do so for the following reason:—The seventh section of the act supplementary to the act for the more efficient government of the rebel States, provides that all expenses incurred under or by virtue of that act shall be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. This provision is wholly unlimited as to the amount to be expended. Whereas the resolution now before me limits the appropriation to $500,000.

I consider this limitation as a very necessary check against unlimited expenditures and liabilities. Yielding to that consideration, I feel forced to oppose this resolution without modifying in any manner my objections heretofore stated against the original and supplementary acts.

[Signed] ANDREW JOHNSON.

Washington, D. C., March 30, 1867.

DIRECT TRADE.—Such paragraphs as the following from the Norfolk Day Book of Friday evening are, in the political gloom that surrounds us, like patches of blue sky in stormy weather:

The steamship Bosphorous will finish loading to-morrow and will clear for Liverpool direct. This is the fourth or fifth ship loaded at this port in the past four months for the same destination. This surely looks as if direct trade was a "fixed fact," and should encourage the people of Virginia, Eastern North Carolina, and Tennessee to renewed exertion.

With consolidation we can load one of these ships every week; and when that grand scheme is consummated, the initial step towards Southern commercial independence will have been taken."

GOING TO REGULATE AFFAIRS.—Some of the called delegates to the Raleigh Convention, which was to have been organized on the 27th inst., while passing through this town, divulged some of their schemes. One of the number said, in substance, we intend to send a Delegation and solicit the attendance of Gen. Sickles, and we intend to use our influence with him to have the recent act of the General Assembly—the Stay Law—strictly enforced, even if it becomes necessary to disrobe the judges and close the halls of justice. Radicalism will essay to perform any act to promote its aims and ends.—Lincoln Courier.

SOUTH AMERICAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, April 1.

The Panama Star, of the 23rd. ult., says that the steamer R. R. Cuyler, which was detained in New York under suspicion, and departed thence under the auspices of the Colombian government, with a crew of Confederates, has sailed for Jamaica with six torpedo boats. The suspicion that she is a Chilian privateer is well founded. She will depredate on Spanish commerce off Porto Rico and Cuba. It is thought that the Colombian Minister at Washington has been bamboozled by Chilian Agents of the notorious steamer.

The Meteor, at Callio, it is suspected, will become a Peruvian or Chilian privateer.

The difficulties between the Colombian President and Congress continues.

The Guatimala revolution is suppressed, and the other Republics are tranquil, though the European truce is improbable, nor has Mr. Seward's proposition for a conference at Washington been accepted.

The Fall Session of this Institution closed 23rd. day of December. The Spring Session opened the 1st. Wednesday in January, and will continue 20 weeks.

The success of this school has been without a parallel. A new building has just been completed, by which a large additional number can be accommodated. We are determined to make our pupils as comfortable as they can be made anywhere, and to afford them all the advantage for a thorough and extensive education, that can be found at any First class Female College, North or South.

The location is a most delightful one. The Mineral Water is too well known to the whole country to need a remark. Even invalid young ladies may secure a thorough education, and at the same time the restoration of their health. Reference is made to every intelligent Physician in the State, as well as to the hundreds who have found relief here.

The young ladies all worship in the College Chapel, and hence no extra clothing is required.—In the single item of dress pare—it can save 25 per cent. of the entire expense incurred by sending to Boarding Schools located in cities or villages.—This Institution is certainly one of the cheapest and most easy of access in the Southern States.—Besides, it offers the most superior advantages in every respect.

TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1867.

[From the Richmond Enquirer.]

CONCERNING THE RAISING OF THE BRONZE STATUE OF CHIEF JUSTICE MARSHALL.

We are glad to see you John Marshall, my boy,
So fresh from the chisel of Rogers!
To take your stand on the Monument there,
Along with the other old codgers;
With Washington, Jefferson, Henry and such,
Who fought with a great transgression
In their old fashioned notions of Freedom and Right,
And their hatred of wrong and oppression!
You come rather late to your pedestal, John,
For sooner you should have been here;
For the volume you hold is no longer the law,
And this is no longer Virginia.
The old martial-law, you expounded of yore,
Is now not at all to the purpose;
And the martial-law of the new Brigadier
Is stronger than habeas corpus.
So keep you the volume shut with care,
For the days of the law are over;
And it needs all your brass to be holding it there
With "justice" inscribed on the cover.
Could life awaken the limb of bronze
And blaze in the burnished eye,
What would ye do with your moment of life,
Ye men of the days gone by?
Would ye chide us or pity us, blush or weep,
Ye men of the days gone by?
Would Jefferson tear up the scroll he holds,
That time has proven a lie?
And Marshall shut the volume of law,
And lay it down with a sigh?
Would Mason roll up the bill of Rights,
From a race unworthy to scan it?
And Henry dash down the eloquent sword,
And clang it against the granite?
And Washington, seated in massy strength
On the charger that paws the air,
Could he see his sons in their deep disgrace
Would he ride so proudly there?
He would get him down from his big brass Horse,
And cover his face at our shame;
For the land of his birth is now "District One"—
Virginia was once the name!

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law; and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,
President of the Senate pro tem.

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 2d section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.
